WEDNESDAY, EVE. JAN. 21, 1885.

The Legislature of Indiana has passed a bill prohibiting Sunday base ball.

W. M. EVARTS has been nominated for United States Senator by the New York Republicans.

On account of the high railroad rates to New Orleans many visitors to the exposition go by river.

The Democrats of Indiana have nominated Hon. Dan Voorhes for United States Senator and the Republicans ex-Governor Porter.

During December 13,622 immigrants arrived in the United States, making a total for the calendar year of 1884 of 453,983, against 560,196 during the previous year.

GEORGE FRANKER, a bar tender, has been arrested at Cateletsburg for attempting to assassinate Capt. Thomas D. Marcum, editor of the Kentucky Democrat. He was released on $300 bail.

The roller skating craze throughout the United States has reached such an alarming pitch, and the demand for skates exceeds the supply, that millions of dollars are now invested in this new enterprise.

The late Captain J. N. Williamson was at one time Captain and owner of the W. P. Thompson, Mattie Roberts, three Emma Graham, Hudson, Pittsburg, Chesapeake, Hibernia and was part owner of several other boats.

The rumors in regard to serious difficulty in the New Orleans exhibition are said to be without foundation. All the money needed to make it a success, it is announced from New Orleans, will be raised without difficulty. The attendance is growing larger daily.

The following is from the Richmond (Va.) State: "Just before the war, while Mr. E. Richardson was proprietor of the wharfboat at Vicksburg, he was aroused from sleep one night by Captain Spotts, of the steamer Ellipse. The Captain introduced him to Major W. T. Sherman, now General Sherman, who was in command of the "regulars" being transported from the Baton Rouge Arsenal to the northern side of the line. Major Sherman said: "Mr. Richardson, I had you waked up to ask if you would be kind enough to take charge of the corpse of one of my men and have the body decently interred."

Mr. Richardson told him he would. He then asked the Major what he thought of the situation. "Do you think there will be war, Major?"

Major Sherman said: "Mr. Richardson, I am afraid there will be trouble," and then he added (in substance), "I have spent many years in the South, where I have received only the kindest treatment, and before I would fight against these people I would lose my right arm."

"Mr. Richardson says he wonders, now that General Sherman is publishing some of his Southern notes, if he has forgotten the interview of that night."

The New York World, in referring to the above statement, says: "It should be any further evidence in the support of this statement. The United States Senate should be empowered to send for papers and persons, including Richardson and Sherman. As a mere matter of personal history it would be interesting to know how Major Sherman came to change his mind, and instead of losing his right arm, to save both arms, both legs and quite a comfortable fortune. While the Senate is engaged in washing the dirty linen of a quarrel of a century ago Sherman might as well be brought into the national laundry, and for any additional expense that may be incurred Sherman's brother John is abundantly able to furnish the soap."

The Northwest.

(Danville Advocate).

The preparations for the cold weather in the Northwest are a surprise to visitors. Fur coats and caps are the rule for everybody; the houses have double sets of windows, with a few inches of air between; the stoves are of enormous size, often reaching nearly to the ceiling, and such a diversion as sleighing is scarcely known, as nobody thinks of spending time out of doors for fun in winter.

Bob Ingersoll's Big Fee.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat).

While Senator Dorsey was here in attendance at the centennial convention he was asked one day how much he paid Bob Ingersoll for his defense in the star case trial. "Well," said Ingersoll, "it was very curious how that was done. From the beginning to the end of the trial Ingersoll never asked me for a dollar. One day, after I had been nominated on the second trial, I met Ingersoll and I asked him how much I owed him. He at first declined to talk about it, saying he had no charge to make and I did not care if he never got a cent. I asked him to walk a few squares with me, and we went to a safe deposit building. I unlocked my box, and took out a four per cent government bond for $100,000 and gave it to him. He put it in his pocket and we walked away, and have not referred to the subject since."

PASSED TO HIS REWARD.

Death of Hon. Flamen Ball, the Old Law Partner of Salmon P. Chase.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—The Hon. Flamen Ball died at his home in Glendale. The members of the bar, the old citizens of the state and the public in general will be pained to hear of his death. He was the law partner of Salmon P. Chase, late chief justice of the United States, and was himself one of the prominent lawyers of Ohio and distinguished men of the country.

Hon. Flamen Ball was born in New York city, January 5, 1819, and was the only son of Flamen Ball, an eminent lawyer of that place and a lineal descendant of Allan Ball, who, in 1745, was one of the founders and proprietors of the colony of New Haven. In 1853 Mr. Ball removed to Cincinnati with his wife, Evelina, youngest daughter of Capt. Samuel Chandler.

In 1858, having adopted his father's profession, he formed a law partnership with the Hon. Salmon P. Chase, who ultimately became chief justice of the United States. This partnership continued for over twenty years, during which time they acquired a national reputation as attorneys of profound ability, and the sterling qualities that go to make the typical man.

On the accession of Abraham Lincoln to the presidency, Mr. Chase was appointed district attorney for the southern district of Ohio. On the passage of the bankruptcy law in 1867, Mr. Chase, the chief justice, appointed Mr. Ball register in bankruptcy, which office he continued to hold until the repeal of the law.

He was a forcible and eloquent advocate, careful and accurate in the management of the causes intrusted to him. He was greatly esteemed for his social as well as professional qualifications, he was courteous and kind to all, and a worker of a public character. In 1874, he lost his first wife by death, and in 1875 he was again married to Elizabeth H. Parsons, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

It is only a few years ago that the deceased moved to Glendale. Judge Ball voluntarily retired from the practice of the law about six months ago, and an old bachelor signified with the words, "S. P. Chase and F. Ball, Attorneys at Law," still hangs on the stairway at No. 8 East Third street, and is the only memento that remains of the once famous partnership.

THE EXPOSITION TROUBLES.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's Complaint to the United States Commissioners.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—The United States Commissioners to the exposition held secret meetings Monday. Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, chief of the department for women's work, presented a long communication the substance of which was that of the sum of $25,000 appropriated for her department she had not been able to get more than $10,000 from the management. In consequence she had been forced to curtail her original designs for the exhibit, and had been driven to the necessity of paying her own expenses, including board bills and railroad fares for herself and her assistants. Her indignity was threatening to distract her goods and chattels to board bills. Mrs. Howe asked the commissioners to interfere in her behalf. They at once refused a vigorous protest to the management and demanded an accounting. Mrs. Howe's indignation it is believed the management is in no position to meet the demand, and that if the commissioners in an unfavorable report to congress the result will be to throw the exposition into the hands of a receiver or agent for the government. The threatened case of the exposition workers which was to have occurred Monday was averted by the payment of ten per cent on account of back wages and expenses of further payments within a few days.

Bath's Unbalanced Books.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—Mayor Scoville has sent to the board of aldermen a report of the examination of the books in the comptroller's and treasurer's departments. He said the books of the latter had never been balanced since 1874. The differences varied from five cents up to thousands of dollars. The report declares that this is probably the first attempt to make a trial balance of the books in the treasury department. The comptroller and treasurer have adopted a system of keeping the books so that they will hereafter be kept in perfect accord.

Phelan Will Recover.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Capt. Phelan, who was stabbed eleven times with a bowie knife by Richard Smith, while at work in the Chambers street hospital, and got shaved by a barber. To the president of the hospital society he said he was feeling fine and believed he was enjoying the best of health.

All Danger Past at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—The danger of flood is past. The water in both rivers is receding, navigation on the Allegheny river is resumed because it is no longer so high. The canal is also full of ice, and the thermometer is nudging the zero line. The railroads, which have been great sufferers by the washouts, are now in full operation.

RALPH, N. C., Jan. 21.—Some men hunting on Black river, in Great Swamp, Pamlico county, near the South Carolina line, killed a black tiger six feet long. The animal died hard, after killing two dogs, and one of the hunters had a narrow escape. Another tiger of the same species and of equal size has been killed in Sampson county. It had killed a cow, several sheep and a calf. It is believed that these tigers are those which escaped from Robinson's circus near Portsmouth, Va., last summer.

AMERICANS SHUT OUT.

ACTION IN EUROPE AGAINST UNITED STATES PRODUCTS.

A Coalition Proposed to Close the European Market to American Agricultural Products—A Halt for the Old World's Peasantry—

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—In the agitation now being on foot among the agrarian party of Austria-Hungary the final end and object of the movement has gained such headway as the continent are becoming more and more apparent. The agitation has for its end nothing less than the absolute shutting out of American agricultural products from Europe and Russia. The protective duty simply which Germany proposes to adopt and which Austria-Hungary is determined to introduce, suffices no longer. The land owners want to be freed from all competition and unhindered by the laws governing the markets of the world to regulate the price of grain to suit themselves. This is to bring about the salvation of agricultural interests. It is not surprising that here such pretensions should arise, for the population is completely infected by reactionary ideas and by the confusion and misleading propaganda of the socialist, the anti-semitic, and the other undesirable spirit of the gulf of confusion. And the government itself, consisting of a conservative aristocratic party, has now two kingdoms or tempting, bait for the peasant—redemption from the shackles of the American competition. Everything is possible in a land where the lack of capital is the cause of the present crisis, where, in spite of this campaign is opened against modern capital; in a state where the industries have no market; in a state where the great manufacturing industries are opposed in order to favor the petty crafts; in a state where the dynamism of the Anarchist makes itself felt every where, in which the highest aristocratic intrigues and combines with the Anarchist leaders—there everything is possible. For this reason I signalize the main points of this movement, which originated in the circles that now govern Austria-Hungary:

"It is announced," says the Wiener Tagblatt, "that a very strange idea has suddenly sprung up and which should be mentioned as characteristic of the present time. The proposition is made in all seriousness that in order to meet the question of American competition we shall take refuge in an European coalition which shall, without any restriction, what ever, close the European market to American agricultural products. In support of this proposition it is remarked that America's reliance on extraordinary circumstances; numerous arable tracts of ground whose production is not yet exhausted, and which is ready for the use of agriculture—America has no standing army. The state takes away no labor from the land; the ground in America is not burdened with grievous taxation, for the state gets its income principally from its tariff. To be taken into consideration also is the activity of the American ship, the facility of American speculation, and the cheapness of transportation must also be mentioned. In America the state is thoroughly alive to furthering the production of its own goods. The American farmer is not oppressed by those burdens which European centralization has laid upon him; whereas in Europe the farmer cannot overcome this American competition in any other way than by closing the European market to Americans."

UP THE SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY.

Making a Railroad in a Great Wheat Region of the Northwest.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Messrs. R. Gill, T. H. Brydges, W. T. Buchanan, and Thomas Howard, officials of the Manitoba and North-western railroad, say the road is completed to a point 120 miles northwest of Winnipeg in the Saskatchewan valley. The valley was being rapidly settled with English and Scotch immigrants, and its population would be doubled next year. It had been found that highland cattle could take care of themselves during the winter, and the road was a large cattle business, which supplied the north-west region. Wheat raising was the other industry of the valley, which extended for hundreds of miles to the north-west into a little known part of the continent. The road was to be built to Prince Albert as rapidly as the means would permit, and the valley will be the finest region in the north-west territory. The road is not much troubled with snow, as the snowfall is much lighter than further south, owing to the Pacific winds.
